Boston University

Center for English Language & Orientation Programs

The primary mission of the Boston University Center for English Language & Orientation Programs (CELOP) is to provide international students with a high quality intensive English language training and orientation program to assist them in attaining linguistic proficiency in English and broadening their cultural awareness for success in their academic, professional, and personal lives. CELOP exemplifies Boston University's long-standing commitment to international education and to the promotion of global understanding and good will. CELOP faculty and staff also strive to serve as a model for the advancement of professional standards and quality instruction in intensive English programs at universities and colleges in the United States. CELOP is also fully accredited by The Commission on English Language Program Accreditation (CEA) and proudly upholds the high standards of this organization.

Established at Boston University in 1975, CELOP—the Center for English Language and Orientation Programs—is a proud member of the University and College Intensive English Programs (UCIEP). CELOP is dedicated to promoting and upholding the highest professional standards to ensure that students receive the most advanced methods of intensive English instruction from trained, professional instructors.
