Welcome to U.S. Educational Group's Fall 2009 Fair

On behalf of the U.S. Educational Group (USEG), I would like to welcome you to our Middle East Fall 2009 fairs in Beirut, Amman, Aqaba, Manama, Dammam, Doha, Kuwait City, Abu Dhabi, Dubai. We believe these fairs will help you find the right higher educational program that you are interested in and that is the right fit for you.

The U.S. Educational Group is committed to assisting in that search. We recognize that international education offers opportunities to acquire training, knowledge, and understanding which will enhance you, your country and the world.

Hopefully you are looking forward to all the opportunities that come with living in a foreign country, and our staff at USEG is committed to assisting you in your pursuits of higher education.

Many students that come to the fairs ask us about the application process, so we have put together a brief guide to Applying to an American University.

Applying to an American University.

The application process for undergraduate admissions in the United States is a fairly involved and complicated process. International students are usually unaware of the time that U.S. application process requires, and that it must be started approximately one year before you expect to enroll.

Determining which of the hundreds of colleges and universities will best suit your needs is a complex process. Selecting the right school to attend requires thoughtful research and understanding the type of education you are looking for. With the diverse choices offered in the United States - from small community colleges offering two year degrees to world-renowned universities with full PhD programs, the choices are sometimes daunting.

It helps to begin your search by either narrowing down the geographic location, or the type of school you are interested in, public, private, small, or large. Many websites, books, and magazines are created to help you with your process, and by attending this fair, you are taking an excellent first step to narrowing your choices. The colleges and universities listed on the following pages have comprehensive websites showing the admissions criteria and available courses of study.

After you have narrowed your choices to 5-8 schools, you are ready to begin the application. While all colleges and universities have different requirements for admissions and deadlines, in general there are 6 steps to the application:

2009 US University Fair Guide

- Application form and fee - All colleges now allow applicants to apply for admission through online applications, which makes the process much simpler and more efficient for most overseas candidates. You may still request traditional paper applications or print them directly from the university website.
- Essay - the essay may be one of the most important parts of the application. Not only does it allow you a chance to tell the admissions officer more about yourself and what you feel is important, but also to showcase your writing skills.
- Letters of recommendation - all schools require you to submit 2 or 3 letters of recommendation from a teacher or other people who know you well. It is important that you ask the recommender to write you these letters early so you can be sure to receive them on time.
- Standardized tests - for undergraduate admission most schools require the SAT and TOEFL, while for graduate admission, each discipline has a different required exam. The times of these exams are set, and you must register for them months in advance.
- Transcripts - official copies of your grades from your school must be sent directly to the university and include a list of completed courses and grades. If the original documents are not in English, a notarized translation must accompany your official transcripts.

- Letter of support - You are required to provide proof that you will have the financial resources to support you while you are a student in the United States.

Once you have submitted your application, you will wait approximately 2-4 months before receiving a response from the university. After your acceptance letter and I-20 have arrived, you will be required to apply for your student visa and bring all the supporting documentation.

It is important for students graduating from high school to understand that applying for law school, medical school, dentistry school, and an MBA (Master's in Business Administration) in the United States requires a 4-year college degree. This means you would have to have completed your Bachelor's degree already to be able to attend one of these programs.

We hope this fair will be a positive experience for you, allowing you to find the school that is the best fit for you. We hope you will visit our website at www.al-jamiat.com for more information about colleges and universities, the application process, graduate studies, and to join our mailing list. Many thanks for coming to the fair!

Regards,

Joseph Z. Humadi
President
