2011 US University Fair Guide

Welcome to U.S. Educational Group's Spring 2011 Fair

I would like to welcome you to our Middle East Spring 2011 fair to Amman, Kuwait, Manama, Dubai, Almaty, and Baku. We know these fairs will help you find the right higher educational program that you are interested in and that is the right fit for you.

The U.S. Educational Group is committed to assisting in that search. We recognize that international education offers opportunities to acquire training, knowledge, and understanding which will enhance you, your country and the world.

Hopefully you are looking forward to all the opportunities that come with living in a foreign country, and our staff at USEG is committed to assisting you in your pursuits of higher education.

Many students that come to the fairs ask us about the application process, so we have put together a brief guide to Applying to an American University.

Applying to an American University.

The application process for undergraduate admissions in the United States is a fairly involved and complicated process. International students are usually unaware of the time that U.S. application process requires, and that it must be started approximately one year before you expect to enroll.

Determining which of the hundreds of colleges and universities will best suit your needs is a complex process. Selecting the right school to attend requires thoughtful research and understanding the type of education you are looking for. With the diverse choices offered in the United States - from small community colleges offering two year degrees to world-renowned universities with full PhD programs, the choices are sometimes daunting.

It helps to begin your search by either narrowing down the geographic location, or the type of school you are interested in, public, private, small, or large. Many websites, books, and magazines are created to help you with your process, and by attending this fair, you are taking an excellent first step to narrowing your choices. The colleges and universities listed on the following pages have comprehensive websites showing the admissions criteria and available courses of study.

After you have narrowed your choices to 5-8 schools, you are ready to begin the application. While all colleges and universities have different requirements for admissions and deadlines, in general there are 6 steps to the application:

2011 US University Fair Guide

- Application form and fee - All colleges now allow applicants to apply for admission through online applications, which makes the process much simpler and more efficient for most overseas candidates. You may still request traditional paper applications or print them directly from the university website.
- Essay - the essay may be one of the most important parts of the application. Not only does it allow you a chance to tell the admissions officer more about yourself and what you feel is important, but also to showcase your writing skills.
- Letters of recommendation - all schools require you to submit 2 or 3 letters of recommendation from a teacher or other people who know you well. It is important that you ask the recommender to write you these letters early so you can be sure to receive them on time.
- Standardized tests - for undergraduate admission most schools require the SAT and TOEFL, while for graduate admission, each discipline has a different required exam. The times of these exams are set, and you must register for them months in advance.
- Transcripts - official copies of your grades from your school must be sent directly to the university and include a list of completed courses and grades. If the original documents are not in English, a notarized translation must accompany your official transcripts.

- Letter of support - You are required to provide proof that you will have the financial resources to support you while you are a student in the United States.

Once you have submitted your application, you will wait approximately 2-4 months before receiving a response from the university. After your acceptance letter and I-20 have arrived, you will be required to apply for your student visa and bring all the supporting documentation.

It is important for students graduating from high school to understand that applying for law school, medical school, dentistry school, and an MBA (Master's in Business Administration) in the United States requires a 4-year college degree. This means you would have to have completed your Bachelor's degree already to be able to attend one of these programs.

We hope this fair will be a positive experience for you, allowing you to find the school that is the best fit for you. We hope you will visit our website at www.al-jamiat.com for more information about colleges and universities, the application process, graduate studies, and to join our mailing list. Many thanks for coming to the fair!

Regards,

Joseph Z. Humadi
President

Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University – Prescott, AZ

Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University is the world's oldest and largest fully accredited university specializing in aviation and aerospace. The university offers degrees at residential campuses in Prescott, Arizona, and Daytona Beach, Florida.

Embry-Riddle in Prescott has 1,700 students and is located in a beautiful, rural, mile-high city approximately 100 miles northwest of Phoenix and 375 miles east of Los Angeles. The climate for study, flight, and outdoor activities in Prescott is perfect most of the year, with moderate temperatures, four distinct seasons, and opportunities to see some of the great natural wonders of the world (the Grand Canyon, Bryce Canyon National Park, and the Petrified Forest) less than a day's drive away. The Daytona Beach campus has 4,800 students on a 178-acre campus just 15 minutes from the beach and 60 miles north of Kennedy Space Center. Most space vehicle launches are visible from campus. The campus sits on the edge of Daytona Beach International Airport.

Embry-Riddle follows the semester system with fall classes beginning in late August and spring semester ending at the beginning of May. Bachelor's degrees are offered at the Prescott campus in aerospace engineering, computer engineering, electrical engineering, mechanical engineering, interdisciplinary studies, global security and intelligence studies, space physics, aeronautical science, aeronautics, applied meteorology, and aviation business administration.

Foothill and De Anza College

Foothill and De Anza offer the first two years of a university Bachelor's degree on two campuses located in the heart of Silicon Valley just south of San Francisco. We are one system with two locations that are five minutes apart. De Anza has a total enrollment of 25,000, and Foothill has 19,000 students. Together, we enroll 2,500 international students from almost 100 countries. Both of our colleges rank among the top community colleges in the U.S., and we are charter members of the prestigious League for Innovation in Community Colleges. Students study with us for two years in over 100 majors, and then transfer into their third year at the university to complete their Bachelor's degree. Currently, 47% of all students in the United States who begin higher education do so at a community college. There are four primary reasons so many students make this choice. First, it costs a lot less. The annual tuition at Foothill or De Anza is around $5,500US per year. Second, admission is a lot more flexible. We're looking for students with at least a 61 iBT TOEFL and average or better results from secondary school. Third, the class sizes are small, and are all taught by regular professors, not teaching assistants like in many universities. There is considerably more individualized attention both within the classroom and through the extra support that we offer just for international students. And fourth, and most important, it's easier to get into the third year of a highly selective university than it is to get into the first year, especially if a student is transferring with good grades from a highly regarded community college like Foothill or De Anza. For this coming Fall, for example, 86 of our international students were accepted to Berkeley, 154 to UCLA, and more to other University of California campuses, Stanford, and hundreds to other places both within California and in other states including Yale, Penn, Carnegie Mellon, Columbia, Cornell, Georgetown and Northwestern!

Troy University

– Tomorrow's University Today!

Founded in 1887, Troy University has been named "A Best College in the Southeast" by The Princeton Review. Located in the warm Southeastern part of the U.S., near Florida and Atlanta. We offer quality education at an exceptional value. Its 577-acre (234 hectare) sits on a beautiful park-like campus. The Southern region of the United States has a rich heritage of friendly hospitality in a safe, family-like environment.

As a "Best Buy" University, the cost of study is one of the many values found at Troy University. A student can study and live for an academic year (two semesters) for about $17,500.

The 7,500 students at Troy University receive superior instruction in small classes taught by outstanding faculty, who takes pride in knowing you by name and not as a number. The Troy Campus is rated as one of the safest campuses in America by the Chronicle of Higher Education.

Troy University brings the world together with about 825 international students from over 60 countries, making you a vital part of our university as well as our community. The academic, leadership and athletic accomplishments of our International students have contributed to the reputation of excellence held by Troy University. Troy University is home to the English as a Second Language center, allowing for conditional admission with easy transformation into our under and post-graduate programs.

* Forbes Magazine listed Troy University as the best in Alabama and 77 in the United States.

We believe that Troy University offers international students a great combination of quality education, affordability, safety, warm climate and hospitality. We are confident that you will agree and become part of Tomorrow's University Today!!

University of North Carolina Wilmington

Outstanding academics, a safe campus in historic Wilmington, N.C., a temperate climate and beautiful beaches make UNCW a popular choice for students. The opportunities for undergraduate research, highly acclaimed faculty, and state-of-the-art classrooms and laboratories are appealing to students interested in the best learning environment. With approximately 12,000 students, the university offers 73 undergraduate programs, 35 master's degrees, including a top-rated MBA program, and doctoral programs in marine biology and educational leadership.

Halfway between New York and Florida, UNCW is located on the coast of North Carolina – one of the most desirable areas in the U.S. University shuttles and local city buses allow students to navigate and explore their surroundings free of charge. Ten kilometers from the airport, UNCW is one short flight away from an international connection in Atlanta, Charlotte or Philadelphia. The local airport (ILM) offers daily direct flights to New York City as well.

UNCW is recognized by several national prestigious rankings as an outstanding university. For 12 years, U.S. News & World Report has named UNCW as one of the top 10 public master's universities in the south. According to Forbes magazine, UNCW is among the top 20 "Best Buy" universities in the United States.

Our Office of International Programs' staff will help you with transitioning from your home country, offering a wide variety of services, from picking up students at the airport to special events hosted exclusively to introduce students to U.S. culture and customs. For those who need additional English language instruction, the on-campus ESL program offers small classes in a welcoming environment, averaging 7 to 9 students per class. The instructors are highly experienced, and the program includes conversation partners and host families. Students take classes 20 hours a week in intensive English language instruction. They also participate in local field trips and cultural events, and can go on optional excursions to major U.S. cities such as Washington D.C. and New York City.
