The American University in Cairo (AUC)

The American University in Cairo was founded in 1919 by Americans devoted to education and community service in the Middle East. Today, AUC is the region's premier English-language university — an essential contributor to the social, political and cultural life of the Arab world. It also serves as a crossroads for the world's cultures: a vital, vibrant forum for reasoned argument, spirited debate and global understanding.

AUC is an independent, nonprofit, apolitical, non-sectarian and equal-opportunity institution, fully accredited in Egypt and the United States. AUC's academic program is rooted in liberal education and focused practice. The university's rigorous core curriculum offers an intensive investigation of fundamental questions in every major discipline.

Georgetown University School of Foreign Service in Qatar

Established in 1789, Georgetown University is a student-centered, international, research university located in Washington, D.C. Since 1919, Georgetown University's Edmund A. Walsh School of Foreign Service (SFS) has been educating young men and women for leadership roles in the international arena. In keeping with this long tradition, and with its history of study and scholarship in the Middle East, the Georgetown University School of Foreign Service in Qatar (SFS-Qatar) welcomed its first class of students in August 2005, offering a curriculum with the same structure and rigorous courses as that of SFS in Washington, D.C.

The Education City campus in Doha, Qatar offers an undergraduate program resulting in the Bachelor of Science in Foreign Service (BSFS) degree. Undergraduate students enroll in a four-year liberal arts program with core and elective courses; they can major in International Politics, International Economics, or Culture & Politics, and can pursue optional certificates in Arab and Regional Studies or American Studies.

Students at SFS-Qatar join an extremely diverse student body representing nearly 50 different nationalities and five continents, all of whom share a passion for international affairs and a drive to be on the front lines of education and development in the region and beyond. Outside the classroom, students participate in various sports teams and social events, volunteer for community service activities, engage in research projects, and pursue internships in international banking, consulting, journalism and other fields. Students may fund their SFS-Qatar education through government sponsorship, merit-based scholarships, and/or need-based financial aid in the form of zero-interest loans.

Indiana University - Bloomington

Founded in 1820, Indiana University Bloomington (IUB) is the flagship campus of Indiana University's eight campuses statewide. The Bloomington campus of Indiana University is home to more than 4,600 international students from more than 125 countries. Students choose IUB for many reasons, including our excellent academic programs, from Intensive English language training to Bachelor's degrees to Ph.D.'s. Also, our welcoming Bloomington community values the contributions of international students and scholars alike.

The Intensive English Program (IEP) at Indiana University offers a comprehensive set of programs aimed mainly at preparing international students to study in English at the university level. The IEP is a long-established English program with over 30 years of training students for academic careers and the program offers excellent value. The IEP has highly trained and experienced teachers, small class sizes, seven levels of instruction, TOEFL preparation, Academic and Professional English and academic advising for all students in the program. The IUB campus and Bloomington community offer a multitude of extra-curricular activities such as sports, music concerts, theater and local events. The IEP belongs to the AAIEP and UCIEP professional organizations.

Saint Mary's College

Saint Mary's College is one of the oldest four-year, women's colleges in the United States, having been founded by the Sisters of the Holy Cross in 1844. With a population of nearly 1,600, Saint Mary's has long been recognized for its exceptional undergraduate academic programs and for preparing graduates to make a difference in the world. U.S. News & World Report ranks Saint Mary's as one of the top 100 National Liberal Arts Colleges.

The 98-acre campus, set alongside the Saint Joseph River, has great natural beauty. Saint Mary's is located just across the street from the University of Notre Dame, just minutes north of the city of South Bend (population 150,000), and only 1½ hours east of Chicago (population 14 million).

The student to faculty ratio at Saint Mary's is 10 to 1. Our small discussion-based classes ensure that our faculty can provide students with personal attention, engage them in lively dialogue, and assist them in coming to know their dreams and aspirations. Merit and financial based scholarships are available to international students. An English Language Program along with conditional acceptance are available for qualified applicants.
